Dighton-Rehoboth Regional High School
Rehoboth, Massachusetts Vol. V

Dedication

Because of his unyielding devotion to the furthering of academic as well as athletic education in the Dighton-Rehoboth Regional High School, we, the members of the Senior class, dedicate the 1965 Aurora to Mr. Robert T. Roy. During our four years here, we have been privileged to have had Mr. Roy as, not only a fine superintendent, but as a friend, who has used much of his valuable time and efforts to listen to, and often help us solve, many of the pressing problems we have had to face.

As we still stand on the precipice of a life whose real value is yet unknown to us, we can scarcely comprehend the meaning of all we have learned from the faculty and administration of this school. But it is our sincere desire that in acquiring further knowledge and thus developing our characters more fully, we will remember that our basic foundations were established here with the aid of such understanding people as Mr. Roy. To him we owe one of the greatest debts, and we can repay him by becoming responsible citizens in tomorrow's world.

Superintendent of Schools

In Appreciation . . .

Appreciation

No mind can function properly and clearly unless it has the proper diet to nourish it. We the Class of 1965 extend to you, Mrs. Jones, our deepest appreciation for having provided us with excellent meals over the past four years. You have often helped us in preparing refreshments for dances and banquets, and we will never forget your little holiday prizes. Again, our thanks to a good and a wonderful cook!

Sincerely,
Class of 1965

Letter From The Editor

In years to come we will find ourselves reminiscing about our four years in high school. Although they were brief, they were years full of rewarding experiences and hard work. We will always remember our fellow classmates and our understanding teachers, no matter how far away we may travel, or whatever we may do. It is our wish that this book will aid in recall of these high school years and always foster the fond memories that make our lives worthwhile.

This yearbook is the result of many long hours on the part of the whole staff and will always stand as a memorial to their labor in future years.

Letter
From Our Superintendent

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1965:

Happiness is as essential to personal success as is a serious mind.

May I wish the members of the Class of 1965 happiness as well as success in the world they are about to enter.

Robert T. Roy

Superintendent of Schools

To the Class of 1965

The Year of the Champions

The value of your high school education is determined by the time and effort you have devoted to your work over the last four years. Many of you have emulated the efforts and enthusiasm of your teachers and as a result you have received an excellent education. A good percentage of you have, through your co-curricular activities, enriched your formal education, and because of your accomplishments you have established goals, and achieved records that many of the students that follow you will try to equal.

To all of you good luck and best wishes.

Joseph C. Harrington

Class Song

1965

We stand tonight and look back,
Over our four years.
And see behind us many smiles,
Triumphs, trials, and tears.

As we seek a bright new future,
'yond the present day.
Those that follow in our path,
We will pave the way.

As we venture on in time,
Mem'ries remain.
Through hard work and what we've learned,
Our goals we will obtain.

As we seek a bright new future,
'yond the present day.
Those that follow in our path,
We will pave the way.

Class Prophecy

Glen Field, the man with the dynamic personality, and Dawnne Stonstrom, noted movie actress, started to the local movie theater to see Dawnne's latest film, I Scrounged For Scarabs. Upon arriving at the theater, the couple was astounded to see Danny Thrasher, the great nuclear scientist, selling tickets to the show. Danny explained that he was fired by his cruel employer, Stanley Perry, for flirting with Stanley's private secretary, Kathy Phillipps. Just then a gold Cadillac stopped at the curb and chauffeur David Ferreira opened the door. Noted spaceman, William Moore appeared. He seemed to go way out in orbit when he saw America's answer to Gina Lollibrigida, Rosemary Gomes, who was standing nearby conversing with Tony Roderick, haberdasher of the year. At this point Glen and Dawnne were ushered to their seats by the manager, John Egan. The lights dimmed, and the curtain rose. When the director's name appeared on the screen, it was familiar to most of the audience, for he was the director of the controversial picture, How to Pass History In Four Easy Years, starring Ken Marcroft, the director of course being Kenton Salisbury! The opening scene of the picture began with George Deibling digging a grave under the supervision of Brian Courcy, owner of the Brian Courcy Undertaking Agency. George's spade hit a metal box and when they opened it, the two men found many valuable scarabs. The contents were given to Police Chief Sam Hagopian, who in turn gave the scarabs to District Attorney, Dickie Hegeman, who then gave them to F.B.I. agent David Vandenberg, who gave the scarabs back to Brian Courcy. Brian, at a loss as to what to do with the treasure, asked advice from private detectives, Wild James Sherlock Pavao and Alden "Hardy Boy" Oliveira of 77 Moonlight Lane fame. The two investigators decided to begin their search for the owner of the scarabs at Cindy Nasse's establishment, better known as Mama's Joint. Here they found beatniks Cathy Higgins and Paula La Vallee talking to waiter, Toby Freitas. When asked if she knew any helpful information about the gems, Cindy could only reply, "Like that's a lot of beetles, Dad. Like I mean, wow!"

After gaining this valuable information, the two men decided to inquire at the home of wealthy financier, Russell Richards. They were told by the butler, Herbert Peloquin, that Mr. Richards had passed away. It was later revealed that the Brian Courcy Undertaking Firm had done away with the remains. The case was solved when an ex-employee of the firm, Herby Borden, admitted that he had broken his glasses on the day of the burial and being quite near-sighted without them, he buried the contents of Mr. Richards' safe instead of Mr. Richards. With such a reasonable story, Herb was immediately released, and the picture came to an end with the dramatic words of Chuck Lewis saying, "All's well that ends well, I suppose."

After the show, Glen and Dawnne, while walking to the grand opening of Lindberg and Linden's Soda Shop, were stopped by Ray Andrews, who was selling pencils on a street corner. Ray explained that he was still trying to pay for his car. After leaving Ray, they decided to go to the sports arena, where Lady wrestlers, Judy Sawtelle and Lauren Davis were fighting for the championship. It was a sellout so they continued on to the soda shop which was crowded with celebrities, such as Carol Willette, the famed jazz singer, and John Maker, the outstanding fire eater. The new hit record, There'll Be a Hot Time in The Old Town Tonight, sung by Christine Murch and accompanied by the Karl Koerner Kombo, could be heard. (Soon after, Maralyn Thurston went to the piano and Barbara Packer stood up leading a chorus of The Exodus Song, backed by Robert Hopkins and Joe Cornell giving support with their melodic voices.)

After about 45 choruses of this, everyone was surprised to see Captain Francis Roderick, assisted by patrolman, William Andrews and top sergeant, Ray Boyce come raiding in. It was later revealed that Lynn Martin had given them a tip resulting in the arrest of "Even Steven" Braga, "Richalie Rubals" White, and "Frederick Bankrupt" Gracia, on charges of soda pop pushing to minors. As Glen and Dawnne fled from the soda shop, they noticed "Ken Pushcart" Bloomquist, Bob "The Beat" Reardon, and Bruce "Meatchopper" Wargot carrying tons of flavored flea powder for fussy fleas from a local warehouse in Sam Del Signore's rapid "bug".

(Checking his watch, Glen found it was time to arrive at the open house party at the home of Gail Doucette. Here they found Karen Plante adding cheer to the get together by introducing comedian entertainer, Ray Gousie, who told some very funny jokes. Royalty was represented by Duke George Ball who could be seen enacting diplomatic relations with Ambassador of Good Will Susan Lavoie. Dawnne pointed out to Glen debutante Charlotte McGinn and her escort playboy, Hilmer Klang while Glen was pointing Lynn Ryan, author of I Dig, out to Dawnne. Jackie Rapoza and Paula Muggleton were doing the Charleston to the stylization to girl orchestra leader, Rita Araujo. Attention was then turned to Robert Dow, who was inspecting the Doucette's gun collection. He challenged Daphne Macomber to a gun drawing contest. Daphne drew first, and chaperon Brian Donly carried Robert to the waiting ambulance driven by flying John Soares. The song "You've Got to Have Heart" by Susan Haskell broke up the party.)

Not feeling tired Glen asked Dawnne if she would like to take a stroll. Dawnne complied, and the couple walked from the party. In the moonlight Dawnne noticed astronomer Robert Rose gazing at the stars. Bob was surprised to see Wayne Dumenigo and Thomas Quackenbush flying in their homemade plane. In a nearby pond, they saw Susan James trying to teach Ray Glynn how to paddle a canoe. (Joan Dias yelled out a greeting as she lowered Donna Corr into the wishing well in order to gain a few extra pennies.)

As the couple walked, they could see an exceptionally large boat in the Taunton River. It was the yacht of millionaire, Gary Grace. A figure seen swimming near the boat was Cathy Bush, champion of the waves. Her instructor, Jane Russell, was coaching the young swimmer from the deck of the yacht. Meanwhile William Kimmell and Ray Shea were chasing Judy Bartiwotz and Paulette Boucher, who were stowaways. Accidentally, Ray knocked Paulette into the water, but no harm was done since John Carlson dived in to rescue the helpless girl. After a moment, John realized he couldn't swim and Susan Dacier, professional life saver, was forced to pull both persons from the drink.

(It was then that Dawnne suggested that she and Glen might pay a visit to the president of the town committee, Lynn Barrow. Lynn's home was alive with the high society of the town. Lee Ann Bishop could be seen chatting with Betty Souza about their favorite topic, men. Jane Andrews was quietly sipping a cocktail, while Jean stood waiting to eat the olive. In one dark corner Joe DeMello was giving cha-cha lessons to Pamela Smith and Dianne Sherman. The newly elected governor, Joseph Souza, was appointing David Harwood as sewer commissioner. Glen pointed out can-can star Elizabeth Simmons showing her new routine to Betty Anne Costa, and Christine Peckham. Entertainers, Kim Trowbridge, Pauline Trahan, and Kathy Wanamaker could be heard singing their latest hit record, "The Wild Ones." The party came to an end when the Swallows, Jane and William, began a tag team wrestling match with Beatrice Gonsalves and Frank Korlarki. Pete Dean, John Dennen, Sharon Simpson, and Evrett Consalves joined in and the house was soon in turmoil.)

Glen and Dawnne found themselves in the wee hours of the morning on their way home. (Rhea Harris and Tom McMahon, founders of The Bubbles Champagne Co., passed the couple on their way to work.) Glen saw Carole and Mike Fleck flash by in their zebra striped Mustang going home from another night on the town. Milkman Jacques Alves, was delivering his products to the home of the Democratic town committee president, Liz Hopkins, while next door neighbor, Gail Helgerson was still cleaning up after her last open house party. Dawnne looked across the street and noticed Admiral Eugene Donais showing his new submarine which was floating in his twelve hundred foot swimming pool to Marie Rapoza and Kathy Riley.

The dawn was breaking as Glen led Dawnne to her door. As they stood there the street began to be crowded with familiar faces. Across the street Nancy Pearl and Sharon Alburn opened the door to their beauty parlor for prospective clients. (Liz O'Connell was returning for the seventh time to photographer Carl Gustafson, for her engagement pictures.) Austin Donahue was walking toward his housewives of the year, Joyce Perry and Ann Salisbury as they were on their way to a sale at Steve Menzel's Department Store. (Edward Abrams, who was voted safe driver of the year, was looking at the damage he did to John Hesketh's luxury auto.) Barry Bullock, vice-president of the Susan Santos fan club was mailing new membership cards to Fred Borland, and Gerald Hunter. (Dawnne and Glen both noticed John Burns and Steve Lindberg coming from their bachelor's apartment and heading for work.)

The streets were coming to life again as Glen bid farewell to Dawnne. As he walked toward the rising sun in the brisk morning air he saw an odd looking automobile. He rubbed his eyes in wonderment and looked again. Could it be? Yes, it was. Brian Courcy's undertaking limousine was heading toward its eerie destination and Glen stood there and wondered if this could be the end of the prophecy.

The task that lies before you is not an easy one. Problems of industry are many and they will tax your patience and ability.

Face each problem as it presents itself, with vigor and a keen desire to do your best. Success and recognition will be your reward.

To each of you I extend my heartiest congratulations and very best wishes.

The Boys in the Cafe

"Kick a little higher, girls!"

"What seems to be the problem here?"

"Pick up your cue, pal!"

"I say there, what dress code have you been reading?"

Behind the Scenes

"When I count three . . ."

"Keep the stripes straight!"

"I can't even read it!"

"Are we going to have to hold this wall up all night?"

"I'm not afraid to go down; but I think one of you should go first!"
